RESCUE EULA IS STARTING HAUL IN MACHINERY

Mr. O. E. Schiffner of the Rescue Eulah Mining Company has just returned to Nevada City accompanied by his family and has gone on to San Francisco on business prior to settling permanently in Nevada City. Mr. Schiffner has just returned from a trip to Tonopah where he arranged for the shipment of a carload of mining machinery and supplies to be used in the development of the Gaston Mine. This equipment is to be hauled from Emigrant Gap to the Gaston Mine by auto trucks and it is understood that the Alpha Stores have successfully bid on the hauling job.

The Resue Eulah is one of the old line Nevada Mining Companies that has an unbroken record of well performed work covering a long period of years. Past efforts have almost entirely been confined to the exploitation of its holdings at Tonopah. Owning a property most favorably situated with regard to the productive belt of the great camp of Tonopah, the Company has prosecuted its developments without fear but unfortunately without the discovery of the large and rich orebodies that have made the name Tonopah an outstanding one in the mining world. Rescue has always been well considered by the mining farternity as well as by the public who support the shares of active mining concerns because its activities have been carried out in conservative manner and it has stuck to its purpose in the manner necessary to successful mine development. It was only after the management felt that every hope of success at the Tonopah property—with mining conditions as they are today—had been exhausted that operations were curtailed.

Mr. Schiffner has been in the field steadily for the better part of a year in search of a property that his Company could safely develop. He is a man of rather unusually wide experience which adds to the significance of the fact that he picked a property which will have its headquarters in Nevada City. The Gaston Mine is one of the old producers of the county and only a fraction of its promising area has been developed. The portion which has been opened disclosed ore shoots of great size extending to a depth of 2000 feet and still going down. As much of the later mining was done during the world war when costs were prohibitive it can be readily seen that the exposed ore in the mine, of which there is a larger tonnage, can be made to yield a profit with methods of present day efficiency and with the management of an experienced staff. However, as Mr. Schiffner so aptly points out, only one ore shoot in the main Gaston Vein has been developed and mined. There are certainly others and the development of a single shoot like the one which has made the record of the Gaston Mine to date, will place the Rescue Company in the forefront of the gold producers of California.

Hauling of the Company's equipment to the mine will proceed at once. Meantime, the camp and premises are to be put in shape to accomodate a crew. Preparatory work to place the mine plant in running condition will then be done and in the interim the matter of permanent power supply will be settled. The past record of the Rescue Company as well as the very favorable reputation of Mr. Schiffner personally insure the fact that the operation of the Gaston Mine will be carried forward in a conservative yet vigorous manner.

It augurs well for the growth of the mining industry in Nevada county that a Company as well recommended by its past performance as the Rescue Eulah has been so fortunate as to secure a property of the indicated worth of the Gaston. A few more such edvelopments and the history of the county will record another period of real mining activity.

Tom Farrer of Reno, who formerly operated a jewelry store here, hasrenewing old acquaintances this morning about town.

ARTHUR HOGE FORMING LARGE EXPLORATION COMPANY FOR OPERATIONS PENN CALIFORNIA MASTI AND LYNCH PROPERTIES 1000 ACRES INCLUDED

Holdings Promise The Development of One of the Largest Bonanzas in The Hectic History of This, California's Greatest Gold Camp Since the Glorious Days of '49

Arthur W. Hoge of Nevada City, who has been the largest, as well as the most persistent mine operator in the Nevada City district for the past several years, has authorized The Nngget to state that he is perfecting the organization for a large exploration company that will operate the properties embraced in the Harmony Mine Company and the old Masti or Mike Lynch place that he has recently acquired and arranged to take over.

And also that as propositions have been submitted to and accepted by the majority of the owners of the Penn-California Mining Company properties, whereby the Exploration Company will completely finish the development of those properties, in connection with their adjoining operations on of the Harmony & Masti properties. The combined acreage of this group of properties, that will be owned and controlled by the Exploration Company will amount to considerably in excess of 1,000 acres.

These properties on the west join up very closely to the Western Merger properties, that are in active operations upon the same ledges that are known to exist upon the properties of the Exploration Company. And also contarct with a north and south ledge that Hoge has already opened up and discovered. It is the general opinion of geoligists and engineers with whom the writer and editor of this paper have talked, that Hoge will have a much greater bonanza has the Western Merger. Because he has got the junction of the north and south contact ledges, on the same ledges as the Western Mergers have, and has also got such a large area of virgin ground to produce from.

In addition to all of the known ledges that exist on the properties of the Exploration Company, there will no doubt be other ledges opened up in the ourse of exploration and development, as has been the case in practically all of the extensive operations in this famous mining district.

Then too, there is known to exist somewheres upon this group of properties, the well known Harmony Channel, that in the early days was one of the richest channels in the entire district.

This channel was worked up to and into the properties of the Exploration Company, and was still running down hill as all present day, as well as all encient river channels naturally do in the course of human events. However both ancient and present day rivers make some queer bends and turns, which has evidently been the case with the old Harmony Channel.

It is however a generally conceded fact, that is recognized by our best engineering and gelogical authorities that in this large area of virgin territory, there are virtually two miles of ancient river channel, that will be just as rich or richer, than was the former Harmony Channel, that was worked from approximately three miles up the ridge, and into the Exploration Company's properties.

And under the systematic plan of development, that is scheduled to be carried out, in the opening up of the ledges adjoining the Western Merger on the Blue Tent side of the properties, through a large central shaft, they will be sure of opening up the old Harmony Channel. Because they will eventualyl make connections with the three miles of underground development, in the Penn-California workings, and in the natural course of events, are sure to locate the channel, wherever its course may be.

Mr. Hoge is certainly entitled to the success that he so honestly deserves for his persistent determination to succeed. He has had to shoulder the entire financial burden of his whole organization for almost a whole year, and it takes a stout heart and a whole lot of faith to back up your courage and convictions in the face of one obstacle after another, until you get things in the proper shape to present to the investor.

He has now however got together a group of properties that are second to none in this famous camp, as they have exceptional merit from both a quartz and gravel standpoint, and consequently he and his associates who will be connected with him in his Exploration Company can confidently look forward ta a most successful and profitable operation for a long period of time. The preliminary work has already been started up on the Blue Tent side, on the old Masti or Mike Lynch ranch, preparatory to determining the best place to locate the main central shaft And active operations will be under way within the next 30 to 90 days.

English—Eastern and local capital will be associated with Mr. Hoge in his operations and the entire community will be back of them in this operation, because this combination of properties should very shortly develop into one of the most profitable prducers in this famous district.

TWIN SISTER TUNNEL IS FAST GAINING OBJECTIVE

Work of driving the big No. 3 tunnel at the Twin Sister property at Snow Point is progressing very satisfactorily, reports President Ray O. Foster, of the company which is developing the property. Foster came over from Talmadge to spend the week end at the mine and note progress.

Two shifts are now driving the bore and the ground is now perfect formation for drifting. The water which has been bothersome is slacking off and making easier work. At the present rate of progress the Twin Sister ledge which is the objective, will be intersected around November 1st. At that time a raise will be run to connect with the No. 2 and No. 1 workings and the ore reserves which have been blocked out in the upper levels will be worked through the tunnel to the new mill which is to be erected at the adit.

The present mill will be running within 30 days and there is a good milling rock ready to put through as soon as the mill is ready.

George David of Ukiah accompanied Mr. Foster to the property.

This is a ten strike for the celebration and will assure a feature that will assure one of the most interesting features that the committee could have arranged.

The parade which is to be the central feature of the day will have a large number of beautiful floats in line depicting different phases of activity in this section. Band music is being arranged and there will be plenty of entertainment of all kinds.

Ponemah Council, Degree of Pocahontas, will have charge of the festivities on the evening of the 3d and the ladies promise a fine night of enjoyment. There will be a burleque affair that promises to be quite a laugh producer.

MITCHELL BONDS MINE SHAFT TO BE DEEPENED

Another important mining development in the local field will be under way during the coming month on the Mitchell property adjoining the famous Idaho-Maryland on the north which has just been bonded by Mr. Mitchell to Frank U. Lassen and G. R. Gibson.

The new operators expect to commence operations in the next few weeks. One of the first objectives will be the sinking of the present 196 foot shaft to the 500 level. There is a 260 foot drift on the 70 level which has developed a nice pay shoot with ore averaging around ten dollars a ton and showing improvement as it is being opened up. Some good specimen rock is being found.

The property is equipped with a hoist ample for fairly deep operations and a surface plant. Milling facilities will later be installed as developments warrant.

WESTERN MINES HOLDINGS BID IN

Commissioner Arthur Hoge this morning sold under the hammer at the court house the properties of the Western Mines Consolidated in this county to W. E. Wright acting in behalf of the plaintiffs in the action. The suit to foreclose a mortgage given by defendants which occupied several court hearings and was ordered sold by Judge Raglan Tuttle. The property was bid in at $66,263.95.

ARCHIBALD HURTS HAND AS SCREW DRIVER SLIPS

A. R. Archibald, general manager of the New England Consolidated Mines, met with a painful accident the past week when a screw driver with which he was working, slipped and cut his right arm severely. A pump was being connected in the mill at the time.

The New England mill, which is being operated as a custom plant is running one shift on concentrates with a milling capacity of two tons an hour. Several local people have made arrangements to handle their concentrates through the New England and it is expected that as a custom plant, the mill will fill an important need in this section.

MINING LOCATIONS HAVE BEEN PUT ON RECORD

TWIN SISTER OFFICIALS VISIT IN NEVADA CITY

Frank Comino of Calpella, a director in the Twin Sister Mining Company, L. Ferrari of Stockton who is connected with the sales department, and A. Barra of Ukiah, were in town this morning returning from an inspection trip to the property at Snow Point. They report everything as progerssing very favorably at the property.

Mrs. Margaret Poorman, one of the '49ers who came over the Hennes Pass route, accompanied by her son Samuel Poorman, Jr., of Los Angeles, and her daughter Mrs. Charles Sherman Hoyt of San Jacinto, were Saturday visitors in town while on their way home from a motor trip to the Lake Tahoe and Yosemite Valley. They also went in to Pike City to see friends.

CAMPTONVILLE SHOWS ACTIVITY MINING CIRCLES

The mining situation in the Camptonville section remains about the same as some time ago. Good progress is being made at the Halkyard Mine by the B. F. McNaught and Company of Los Angeles. There are several families there, and the camp resembles a small village. They are working towards the channel, and the prospects are very good for the making of a very good property out of this claim. Mr. McNaught is to be complimented on the manner in which he is working the property and the local people wish him every success in the project.

T. H. Fowler of Riverside, was here a short time ago, coming up to look over the Mt. Alta property, but it being already leased to another party, he did not get an opportunity to do any business. He is an old gravel miner, contractor, and mining investor, and very much liked the looks of this section, and expressed his opinion that he would be back here at a later date.

The Garden Valley dredger is reported as again operating. The highway water last season washed it from the channel and onto dry land and for a time it was idle, but it is now reported as again working.

The long drawn out law suit over the lease at Snowden Hill Mine, between its owners and H. W. Hartman, Messrs. Newman and Johnson, all of Los Angeles and Ventura, terminated Friday when the Superior Court of Sierra county, at Downieville, struck the lease fro mthe records and restored the ownership and title as clear back to the owners, ousting the Hartman crowd forever more from this property. This suit has been pending since last summer, it not being contested very strong towards the last although at first the Hartman crowd were trying hard to retain the lease on the property although they had borken the terms of the contract in every respect. Aside from breaking the agreement, they ran the mine in a wild, speculative fashion and at the end of the operations had plunged several thousand dollars, and come out owing many labor claims and several large merchandise bills.

The property is owned by Cornelius T. Driscoll, Dr. Grimmer, W. L. Hirsch, W. H. Wilheimer, et al, of Mission San Jose and Irvington. Mr. Driscoll and Weihheimer visited the property Friday and Saturday, and are making preparations to bring up some interested parties as prospects for future operators.

The history of this gravel property dates back to the early days and is fascinating. The old owner, in the pioneer days, Jeremiah Watts, worked the property for many years and took out many thousand dollars, and itis the opinion of many people here at present, that he did not get it all, and that there still remains a very rich channel in this section. The mine is one of the best equipped properties in this part of the country. It has several buildings, consisting of a large boarding house, bunk house, superintendent's cottage, blacksmith shop, compressor house, etc. It is fitted up with a good electric light plant and a good compressor for air and machine drills in the tunnel, aside from this the smaller tools and other equipment is complete, with a good road into the mine. The property is also enriched with a good water supply and a quantity of good timber.

William Wenzel of Berkeley, is now living at his claim on Oregon Creek, and doing the yearly assessment work. Mr. Wenzel is interested in the Rogers Claim above the Oregon Creek bridge on the Pike road, and comes up every season, vacationing and doing a little prospecting on the side.

Harry R. Crane and H. Kinney of Pasadena, arrived a short time ago and set up camp on the gravel claim located by R. E. Miesse of Willow Creek near the Oak Valley Mill, and are doing a little prospecting work. Last year B. K. Badger and party of Fresno, put up a new device for working gravel on this claim, more as a matter of experiment on the machine than purely for mining.

PIKE RESIDENTS FIND DEAD DOG TOWN WELL

PIKE, June 23, The residents of Pike City experienced the unpleasantness of finding a dead dog in the town well a few days ago. The water had seemed bad for some little time, and an investigation of the bottom of the well revealed the carcass of a dead dog. The dog was a local animal, having been missed for two weeks, it being probable that he was in the well all this time, and the people drinkink the water.

The dog was removed, and the well cleaned, and although there was no illness caused from this foul water, yet the recollections of it are not pleasing to those using this source of water supply.

EXCLUSION HEARINGS SENSATIONAL BOND HOLDERS GET INTO THE GAME

The hearings for the exclusion of certain Placer County lands from the Nevada Irrigation District got under way last Monday but were halted Tuesday morning just as the hearing was to commence on receipt of a telephone call from the bond syndicate attorneys in San Francisco who requested a conference, which was agreed to.

The following is a resume of the points developed at the first day's hearing:

At the outset of the hearing on Monday, Mr. Chamberlain outlined his position both as a landowner in the proposed lands to be excluded as well as the lands he represented as attorney. He stated that he has heard that the directors had a proposition under consideration which would save the District from bankruptcy and that he and his clients wanted to show their willingness to cooperate with the board if it had some feasible plan. He was of the opinion that the District as an irrigation enterprise was not practical and that it was purely a power enterprise in its conception and that its valuable power facilities are covered by the Pacific Gas and Electric contract with the District. That if the board had a possible solution of the financial difficulties without the necessity of a land tax he was willing to listen to it. He and his clients were not parties to issuing propaganda against the district but wished to see a way out.

The main point at issue at the outset was the ruling made by the district's attorney that the board was without power to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of unwilling witnesses. This matter is not covered by law and the attorneys for the petitioners for exclusion indicated that they were prepared to go into court to test this opinion. Mr. Eddy stated that if the board was so impotent that it was without power to bring in the full testimony that it was high time to find it out, and that the matters at issue are vital to the very life of the district. That the interest of the petitioners is one of self interest and self preservation. If the directors are able to avoid a land tax, that they wanted to help.

Eddy stated that he was not here to discuss mismanagement but to find out if the district is economically sound and if it is that he wanted to know it, and find out how far irrigation was to go in a purely power project. There is dissention within the board and the district and we want to know from the board where we stand.

At this point, Mr. Wisker engaged in one of his beautiful word pictures and stated that it was a basic assumption in California irrigation districts that bonds and interest charges would be floated by land taxes. That 45 districts in the state have a land tax and 40 others have water tolls, showing 85 out of 87 districts have a land tax. That if the lands in question are excluded that they will still be subject to the outstanding bonds and interest. The exclusion, however, would save them from further taxes.

Mr. Eddy started in to puncture the pleasant impression by stating that the Nevada Irrigation District was nothing else than a power project and to speak of it as anything elese was an absurdity. That is was not basically an irrigation district but it had been hoped that the power revenue would plll it through.

Eddy asked that the people be not led away with visions that are visionary and in telling of the experiences in the Honcut and the wealthy people that had let their lands go to taxes rather than try to keep them up, he was interrupted by Mr. Wisker who told him the board was not interested in hearing about those things and particularly about something that had taken place elsewhere Mr. Eddy retorted that Wisker had started the thing with his rosy picture of other irrigation districts. After a spirited intercourse, Eddy said that if his answer to Wisker's statement was so hot that he could not stand it, that he would stop but that Wisker's visions were drivel and rot, and that they had to contend with promoters and visionary people in his district. That in the final analysis they had proved that a land tax was confiscatory. Wisker tried to shut him off but the board gave him permission to conclude his statement on his saying that he would finish in three minutes. The crowd present cheered Eddy to the echo.

In the afternoon, Mr. Chamberlain took the floor to outline the things he expected to prove. He stated that there being on the board some members who were not on at the time of annexation of the district, that he would review a history of the proceedings. Among the points he mentioned as representations to secure the Placer county annexation were:

1. The Pacific Gas and Electric contract for use of the water.

2. That no land tax would ever be necessary except to prevent speculation.

3. That approximately only 25 per cent of the power possibilities were covered in the P. G. & E. contract.

4. That $[illegible],000 extra revenue would be made possible by the annexation of the Placer county area.

At this point, the district's attorney crowds in with the statement that the board did not wish to hear the statement. Chairman Teagarden ruled however that he was in favor of the statement being made provided it was brief.

Mr. Chamberlain stated that the contention was being made that the southerly exclusion of territory was not legally made and that discrepancies occurred in the boundaries of the district and mentioned two tracts of land that were almost entirely surrounded by excluded territory, that petitions for inclusion of the land were faulty in different particulars.

5. That the District's rights to the waters of the Middle Yuba were in question and that the district might lose that water in the courts.

6. That he was prepared to show that the District is financially embarassed.

7. That the District assessor has assessed lands at five to six times the value placed on them by the Placer county assessor and three to four times its actual cash value.

8. That the possibility of irrigation revenue is remote.

9. That it is to the best interest of the district to exclue the lands on account of the cost of getting water to the land.

10. That he expects to prove that it is not economically possible to develop the Nevada Irrigation District as an irrigation district and that land taxes will be necessary.

The attorney for the district held that matters pertaining to the inclusion of the lands were not relevant to the present hearing and clashes of counsel were frequent on this point during the hearing. Director Schwartz stated that he wanted to see the petitions. Wisker said that the inclusion could not be annulled and Eddy said he disagreed on this point.

At this juncture Sheriff Carter made a dramatic entry with a summons to serve on the District in the suit instituted by Chris Hansen who claims over $100,000 for damages arising from flooding of his mining claims at Lake Bowman.

Wm. H. Goldsworthy, civil engineer of Oakland, took the stand and had a large colored map to exhibit showing the Placer country area.

J. J. Desmond was next sworn and stated he was the owner of one of the two tracts in Section 1 that was surrounded by the excluded lands. At this point Mr. Wisker stated that he was to blame in their being included inadvertently and suggested that they be excluded for the best interest of the district. He recommended an order granting exclusion to both the Desmond and the Monihan tracts.

Mrs. Anna L. Dobbas, the owner of the NW¼ in Section 12 and the NE¼ in Section 16 was next sworn. She testified that she irrigated her holdings with water from the Caperton ditch and that as the NID is not expecting to acquire that ditch from the power company that she is entitled to exclusion. Mr. Wisker recommended her exclusion. Mrs. Dobbas said that at the time of signing she was told that all her neighbors were signing up and that she might as well come in peacably as to be forced in.

Mrs. Hattie F. Lewis of San Francisco, owner of land in the SW¼ of Section 33, in the northwest corner of the Placer county area, was next sworn. She stated that her land had always been used for grazing land and was using no water for irrigation although the Camp Far West ditch ran through her place. She said she was led to believe at the time of signing up that she would be getting cheaper water, the same as her neighbors thought.

At this juncture, Director Schwartz said he had sold himself to the idea of cheap water too but that because things have not turned out as they should is no grounds for exclusion.

Adjournment was taken for the day.

Just as the passive candidate falls far short of the vote he might get, if he tried to get the vote out, so the results gained by the passive business fall far short of those it could get if it began to push its sales by advertising, and thus attracted public attention and won public interest.—Sonora Union Democrat.

GOOD PROGRESS IN TURPENTINE IS BEING SHOWN

Few owners realize how much money they are loosing each year by allowing good desirable firewood to go to waste each year, and how much good sawtimber is cut each year for firewood at an incomparably lower price and prematurely. Sawtimber is getting scarcer each year in this country since reforestation has not yet been started on a large scale, large enough to keep up with the cutting and growing timber is getting more and more out of proportion. At least the simplest form of systematic reforestration should be adopted now, by each individual owner of timber tracts. Or better, cutting operations sholud be conducted on a basis which has one eye on the future values of timber.

Our government is doing its very best to establish National Forests and raise timber for later needs apart from the fact that they create water sheds, so badly neede here, and recreational parks for the nation.

It is in the interest of the pocket book of the individual farmer, timber or mine-owner to coopreate all they can.

Timber land from the 10th year on should be thinned out. Before that time fire trails should have been laid thru the tracts. When trees are 6 feet high the thinning should start. Underbrush should be kept down at all times. This generally is easy work as the young pine fir or cedar, if thinned out not too much, will kill such underbrush

A ltitle assistance may have to be given. According to the needs of the individual owner the timber should be thinned out for one grade of tree according to his needs or tastes. Those tracts generally command better prices than mixed tracts. In thinning attention must be pail at all times, whether an owner wants to clear each year or every third or fifth year, that the trees bcome evenly spaced. Most tracts in this county can be fairly easily managed especially would bring to the owner a permanent yearly revenue of about the same size if only the smaller trees were cleared off, allowing the larger ones to grow to sawtimber size. Spruce and cedar can be used for timbering mines, oak and pines will to sawtimber size and produce pine gum while they grow. Even mining poles which may be cut from the larger pines may in later years and before cutting systematically be bled for pine gum adding to the owners income. This thinning out may be continued until the forest has been reduced from a jungle of 500 trees per acre to a most desirable forest with aoubt 40 healthy trees of about 50 years. Trees thinned in this manner will grow considerably faster and should produce in this country under the favorable conditions which we have here exemplary timber areas.

After this period only trees which may be diseased, struck by lightening or blown down thru winterstorms should be cut for firewood. In later years and for certain purposes cutting may be extended until only 30 trees are left to the acre. It must not be overlooked that in the meantime, new trees have been planted or grown around their mother trees, protected and sheltered by the old trees and ready to produce healthily for the coming generation.

Thinning should not be done too fast. In thinning attention must be paid to the crowns of the trees. Reducing the shade spreading area and thus increasing evaporation of a prehaps clayey dry soil will weaken the trees and often we find that those stands which have been thinned too fast, like those other stands that had fires, will become dry, a poor turpentine tree and A READY PRAY FOR BEETLES. Particularly Southern slopes, undermined areas, hot valleys, or tracts where the humus forming needlecover has been removed by fire will show signs of weakness. Firetrails hoed places, frequently done by the gum operator, will not cause much more expense but surely will pay heavily for the little forethought and intelligent labor done. The needles plowed under will retain much needed moisture and supply nitrogen. Burning may be the cheapest for a short period, but in the long run it is expensive in more than one way. Forestland can be made to pay dividends, regularly and in larger amounts than many an orchard, but it needs attention like other branches of farming.

Mrs. Cora Woodbridge Has Announced Her Candidacy

In announcing my candidacy for re-election to the Assembly from the 9th District, I do so with a full knowledge of the responsibilities required of the office and with the firm belief, that because of my experience in legislative work and because of my familiarity with the diresified interests, the conditions and needs of the district, that I can continue to serve, intelligently and sympathetically the best interests of my people.

I have by choice during my legislative experience served on the following committees, all particularly affecting my district: Mines and Mining, Education, Irrigation, Agriculture, Roads and Highways ,Public Health, Labor and Capital, Charities and Correction and Conservation. Last session I served as chairman of Engrossment and Enrollment, a committee requiring constant attention and care, on the important Ways and Means Committee, and on Mines and Mining.

My record of the past three terms in the legislature is evidence enough of my ability to accomplish that which I undertake since I have never lost a bill on the floor of either house. At the last session every measure which I sponsored received the signature of the Chief Executive and became a law.

I count as my personal friends many of the members of the Governor's Cabinet and I have a wide acquaintance with influential men and women throughout the state which gives me an opportunity to secure whatever reasonable support I may seek for any proposed legislation affecting my district: hence I have no hesitancy in submitting my candidacy for re-election, and asking for the support of the voters of my district for I CAN BE OF SERVICE TO THEM.

Engelbright Gives Comprehensive Survey of Mining

Since the outbreak of the World War prices of all commodities have increased greatly except that of gold, which as the standard of value is fixed at $20.67 per ounce. Thus the purchasing power of gold has diminished as the price of other commodities has risen, The great increase in the cost of gold mining has discouraged new enterprises and curtailed existing operations. Many mines have been compelled to close. Most of the mines that have continued operations have been able to do so only by practicing the most rigid economy and by the curtailment of development work. Every possible assistance in the way of legislation, both Federal and State, must be given to the gold-mining industry. The Government, through the Bureau of Mines, should also assist in improving the methods of mining and metallurgy of gold ore, particularly in the treatment of complex and low-grade ore. A wide field of work is presented here. It is time that a really serious effort should be made to solve the gold-producing problem.

The United States still lacks in the development of adequate supplies of a number of highly essential minerals, such as tin, platinum, nickel, chromium, quicksilver, antimony, potash, and nitrates. The discovery of reserves of these highly important minerals, or the devising of methods of substitution, furnishes important fields of investigation.

The possibilities of substitution of abundant minerals for rare minerals is one of which we know little. The comptetion of mineral with mineral is large, but little understood, importance. How the properties of metals can be changed by alloying with others and other similar problems demand solution.

The Bureau of Mines has many problems pending before it for solution,, on which it has been unable through lack of appropriations to make a strat—some of the typical problems being as follows:

Study of hydrometallurgy of low grade manganese ores.

Studies of permissible or desirable explosives for use in metal mines (at present the study being confined to coal mining.)

All of the problems have been mentioned and hundreds of others ited States Geological Survey and the Bureau of Mines, in proportion to their responsibilities, and in proportion to the value of the industry which they represent is so small as to constitute evidence of a thorough lack of understanding of the subject. Public opinion will assert itself when it has been sufficiently informed as to the real facts.

In most of the highly developed nations the minreal industry is advanced by every government means, and a secretary of mines or the equivalent in rank, occupies in the Cabinet a responsible and important position in the Government. If the American mineral industry is to maintain its position, it must have the benefit of continuous research of the widest and most fundamental character, and in this program the Federal Government must carry its part of the load.

The annual appropriations of the Bureau of Mines and the United States Geological Survey should be materially increased so as to enable them to properly undertake the imconfronted.

Methods of mine sampling and valuation.

In the marketing of minerals and mineral products, there is a marked lack of well-selected records and sifted data.

Many important projects are pending before the United States Geological Survey for study and field investigation. As an illustration, the following list of projects have been considered from time to time, but in spite of their recognized merit and importance, through lack of appropriations, no work has been possible:

Geology of Death Valley, Calif; Mining district of California; Mining districts of Idaho; Mining districts of Arizona; Mining districts of Montana; Mining districts of Utah; Geology and geophysical methods of prospecting.

THE NUGGET PAGE OF MINING NEWS

MARIPOSA COUNTY

The Colorado Quartz which was acquired recently by the Belmont Metal Corporation has a crew of 15 men employed. L. Everett is in charge and preliminary work will consist of new road building in or der to transport supplies and machinery to the mine. All machiery at the mine is being given a complete overhauling. They expect to drive the shaft down 300 feet or 200 deeper than all old workings. After the first hundred feet have driven with gasoline power it is expected that electricity will be ready to complete the work.

The new company is organized under the laws of Nevada and has the reputation of being well financed and successful.

The Spread Eagle claims taken over by T. M. Bains and associates of Colorado is making fine headway with preliminary work. A 100 foot raise is to connect the tunnel with the surface. A hoist has been installed to sink from this point. Six men are employed and a large force will be employed next month. The company expects to do some extensive and deep development. This will encourage others to sink to liwer levels. All mines in the Whitlock district have been heavy producers in the past.

The Feliciana Mine, which is proving one of Mariposa county's rich properties is showing much high grade ore as sinking continues. Is is expected by Morris Faber, manager, that a shaft 100 feet deeper will be sunk to prove the depth of a rich chute of ore which has milled heavily the last few months.

Some very important news is expected from the River Tunnel mine in the near future. Work is progressing rapidly on cleaning up the old workings. Twenty men are employed.

Rich ore discoveries in the Virginia Mine at Coulterville is stimulating much interest on the Mother Lode, the first time in 30 years. Keen competition for the Lode properties exists.

Recently 14 feet of high grade ore has ben opened up on a cross-cut on the 400-level. Ore of bonanza type is being mined mixed with white quartz and black sulphides.

KERN COUNTY

The Zenda Mining Company, which has taken over property in the Calico mining district, is causing unusual interest from mining men. This company let a contract to Messrs. Taylor and Jackson to sink a three compartment shaft. 500 feet. Three shifts are at work and the shaft is down 200 feet. Three shifts are rushing the work. Core drilling was used to locate favorable gold values. The district is noted for rich silver production.

production.—Barstow Printer.

SISKIYOU COUNTY

C. E. Humphrey has supervision over the Lucky May Mine on Mill Creek and development work is proceeding rapidly. Electricity will soon be installed. Three families, all interested in the mine are camped near and anumber of other families are to come down from Seattle soon. Three houses are built and more to be built soon.

A BRIGHTER MINING OUTLOOK PREDICTED BY MAGAZINE

"With the oil wells closing down for lack of business, etc.," the San Joaquin Power Magazine of Fresno, pictures a brighter outlook in the mining fields and the possibility of the opening of past famous gold producers. Among the splendid pictures throughout the magazine are a great fire place built from gold quartz in the lobby of the Krone hotel, Coarse Gold district. A street scene in the camp of Columbia, a cabin where Mark Twain lived during the days of gold.

Texas Flat mine in its day, was one of the most productive gold mines in what was then Fresno county. This is one of the possibilities of an old district being brought back by opening up of its historical mine.

It mentions Poker Flat, the scene of Bret Hart's most famous story. This old camp has come to life, but instead of shaggy, red-shirted miners, with their shovels and gold pans, a steel monster driven by eletricity is digging down under the shallow water.

It is estimated that the electrical drudge does the work of 2,500 men.

FINDS MINE AFTER ABSENCE OF MANY YEARS

An old prospector named Turney walkel into Forks of Salmon a few days ago wearing a happy smile and his first words were, "Well, I have found it." About 30 years ago he uncovered some rich pay dirt on Specimen Creek and now after 30 years absence has uncovered it again. About the time he first discovered this ground he went on a visit to relatives and for years prospected in Idaho and Montana.

He had always kept in mind this rich ground on Specimen Creek so lat winter he returned and has been waiting for the snow to go off in order that he could look for the old diggings. He took another man with him and for days they searched but he was unable to locate the old claim. Finally his partner found other employment. Turney continued to search until he was rewarded by locating the mine he had located many years ago.

From a pan that he took from the top of the ledge he found ten or fifteen small nuggets and a string of fine gold. The ledge has a hard gray porphry hanging wall, while the foot wall is dyorite, with iron cubes and a stain of silver in the ore. The ledge is from eighteen inches to two feet at the top.

Turney returned to Forks of Salmon and secured implements for the purpose of building a trail to the property, so he can get provisions in. From all indications he has struck a rich ledge. He has been a prospector for many years and made some good strikes in early days. He says there are many good ledges in the Salmon river section and if a prospector will take an outfit and spend the summer in the hills he is almost sure to strike a good ledge. —Siskiyou Times.

CAMPTONVILLE MINING

Slate Range on his claims which he started to tunnel last season. This is in a very rugged country and it is difficult work doing development work, being extremely hard to get supplies to the property. This is the third season that Mr. Kelly has worked at this in an extensive manner.

Henry Rabe is still forging ahead in his tunnel at his quartz property near the Sleighville House. If the rock contiues good Mr. Rabe will probably put up a small mill to handle the ore.

Although not as noticable as in the days of forty-nine, the lure of the yellow dust still pushes many a soul into the wilds, and he who braves the hardships connected with this vocation, risks his safety, works long hours, and waits another day to reach the desired goal, whether he be a lone, nature loving prospector "river rat" as some of his unfortunate brothers term him, or the financier who is willing to put up his money and take a chance on striking it rich or losing, both working to the development of the country, is a man to be complimented and encouraged.

W. F. Detert, prominent Amador county mining man, has purchased 900 acres of gravel and quartz property at Foresthill in Placer county and will develop it by tunnels.

Spencer White is home after spending some time at Hobart Mills.

And now someone finds that "the shark was the first of our ancestors to have a face." Since many have inherited other characteristics of their shark ancestors, why not believe this latest discovery?

It's a fortunate son now who knows where his own mother is—especially during the bridge season.

The world may be strong for peace but most of the nations seem to want it on their own terms.

According to our European critics it is perfectly all right for Great Britain to protect her interests in the Suez canal by intervening in Egypt but it is rank imperialism for Uncle Sam to do anything toward defending his canal rights in the western hemisphere.

MANY VISITORS COME TO FRENCH CORRAL

FRENCH CORRAL, June 23,(Special to The Nugget)— Here we are again with our items. Feaky weather still continues. Visitors come and think our weather and climate and everything here "just ideal!" That pleases us for we think the same most of the time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Kuffer were visitors last week. They were old residents of the Ridge, who are now living in Oakland.

J. Moody, Stanley Deal, J. Swazey were visitors Saturday evening.

Mr. E. Proom and son, Francis, of Sweetland were Saturday visitors. We learn with regret that the Proom family are leaving Sweetland and taking up their residence in Oakland. Mr. Proom purchased the old Warner property a few years ago and made many improvements there on but his occupation, painter, paperhanger etc., is more called for in the cities.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Wood and baby Carl, and Mr. Wood's mother, Mrs. K. Wood, were Sunday visitors. Mrs. K. Wood accompanied by her grandchildren, Dona and Walter Roux, of San Francisco are on an extended visit at Sweetland.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Day of Oakland, who have been guests of W. E. Moulton for the past two weeks, left for their home Sunday morning. They were delighted with the country and regretted that they could not remain longer, but when vacation time comes again, they know wher they can spend it.

Mrs. K. Broyles and daughter Mrs. Labour, of Sacramento spen' Sunday in French Corral.

Miss Lucy O'Conner, who has been visiting relatives in Birchville, returned to her home in Sacramento Monday.

Miss Theresa O'Conner of Birchville has gone to San Francisco and will take up summer work at the U. C. Miss O'Connor has been teaching at Rough and Ready for the past three years.

Many friends of Miss Frances Moulton attended the commencement exercises at Mt. St. Mary's academy Wednesday evening. Miss Moulton one of the graduates of which there was a large class. All enjoyed the evening from start to finish.

Mr. Arthur O'Conner of San Rafael is spending his vacation at his home in Birchville. Mr. O'Conner teaches at San Rafael.

This annual event at Mt. St. Mary's is always looked forward to with much interest as a fine program is always presented.

Bill McCullough of Weed was a visitor Wednesday.

W. E. Moulton and Thos. Myers made a trip to Nevada City Thursday.

Remember the good old days when you thought you were having a good time if you started the afternoon with a croquet game and ended up with a buggy ride.

CITY TRUSTEES DISCUSS TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

An extended session of the city board of trustees was held Thursday evening, a number of items of business coming up for consideration. The main source of worry for the city dads is the framing of the new traffic ordinance which is destined to correct many of the present evils and also to pour a new source of revenue into the city coffers.

The ordinance which has been in the making for some months is now practically ready for its final draft and enactment into law. It lists four streets as boulevards, Pine street from Broad to Sacramento, Broad from Junction of East and West Broad to Plaza, Sacramento from Plaza to Zion and Zion from Sacramento to the city limits. Stop signs will be erected along these thoroughfares and an effort made to enforce the provisions of the ordinance. All night parking in the business section has been a troublesome item as well as some of the old cars which have been stored about the streets for some months. Due attention is being given to the request of the fire department for certain parking restrictions to allow the free movement of the fire trucks at all times. Parking on Broad Street from the theatre to the Plaza is to be diagonal on the south side and parrallel on the north to give more room for moving traffic. The new ordinance will mark an important step for Nevada City which has been getting along haphazard for many years without any traffic regulation.

FOURTH OF JULY DONATION

In keeping with its regular custom the trustees voted $100 for the Fourth of July celebration and will also provide benches and other conveniences for that day. A request of the Sacramento Bee for an advertising contribution was passed over, all advertising matters being left to the advertising committee of the celebration. The trustees showed their willingness to ocoperate in every way but put their foot down on the numerous special police which have decorated the city payroll on some previous occasions. The sheriff's office and the state triffic police will be asked to assist in keeping the traffic under control.

NEW RATES MAKE ELECTRIC COOKING VERY ECONOMICAL

And then let the electric range do all the cooking

Every woman loves to cook—when the monotony of cooking is gone.

That is what the electric range does. It eliminates cooking monotony. Its harmonious white porcelain enamel makes kitchens attractive. Its perfect baking wins appetites. And its automatic time and temperature controls do the cooking while you're shopping or at the movies.

The oven of the new electric range heats up to 400 degrees in 9 to 11 minutes—as fast as one can mix biscuits. The open coil cooking elements are now made smaller to fit your pans. Heat that was formerly wasted goes to work. The result is, food cooks faster — less electricity is used.

See the new electric ranges today. Ask about our special low terms.
